

Mary's PE Lesson

One rainy morning, Mary was playing basketball with her classmates in a PE lesson in the court. Mary felt great because they were ahead of the other team.

Suddenly, Mary twisted her ankle and felt great pain. She felt scared because she had never felt so much pain before in her entire life.

Then, Mary was sent to the hospital. The paramedics were with her on the ambulance. "Don't worry, you'll be fine," they reassured her. But Mary was feeling as painful as hell! She wanted to vomit because she was feeling very sick!

When Mary arrived at the hospital, the nurses there took very good care of her. Though she could not move her leg, she felt good because she did not need to break her other leg. She learnt that she should be grateful for having a healthy body finally and for others' help.
